While long-term evidence of such a link is not yet apparent in terms of strong trends, they could represent a key long-term environmental concern or indicator. While there are many biological sources of organic carbon emissions, those from human impacts appear to exceed all others at this time. Further, as new papers emerge, it will be important to continue to monitor these trends in the coming years since higher global climate change is likely to affect organic matter fluxes.

This form of the word anwesen means "to be there" in the sense of presence, as opposed to being physically present, which is what the verb sein means. The verb anwesen is often used in legal contexts, such as in contracts or wills, to indicate that a person is present at the time of the signing.

Consequently, the results of this study indicate that the use of a single diagnostic method or combination of several different methods may not result in capture of all the fish either initially, especially those in deeper water, or subsequently as they move rapidly. This indicates the need for continued monitoring of the catch rates of the various predators to detect changes in their feeding behaviour.
