A man in a green shirt and dark trousers is speaking to a group of men. He is gesturing with his hands as he explains something. The group consists of men of various ages, some wearing traditional turbans and others in more modern clothing. They are standing in a line, listening attentively. The background is a pink wall with a banner and a window with blue metal grilles.

A group of men are standing in a line, listening to a man in a green shirt. The men are dressed in a mix of traditional Indian attire, including turbans and kurta-pajamas, and more modern clothing like button-down shirts and trousers. They appear to be engaged in a community meeting or a public consultation. The setting is outdoors, in front of a pink building with a window featuring blue metal grilles. The ground is a light-colored, possibly paved or dirt area. The overall atmosphere is one of a community gathering or a public service event.
